PROPOSED AMENDMENTS. Changes in the Constitution Suggest-ed by the Legislature.

The last Legislature suggested a number of amendments to the Constitution. A synopsis is here given:

Section 2 of Article IV. is amended, changing the time of the convening of the Legislature from the first Monday in January to the first Monday in February. This is for the purpose of giving the State officers an opportunity to prepare their reports, so they will be in readiness to submit to the Legislature when it convenes, thereby preventing great waste of time which is now occasioned by the want of them during the first two or three weeks of the session.

Section 1 of Article 11. is amended so as to require naturalized citizens to perfeet their citizenship six months prior to the time for voting. This is evidently for the purpore of preventing political parties and candidates from defraying the expense of naturalization papers for such persons as do not care enough for the privilege of exercising the elective franchise to pay for them themselves It also disfranchises all persons convicted of the offense of selling ther votes.

Article XVI. is changed so as to render it necessary for constitutional amendments to be adopted only by one Legislature instead of two consecutive ones, before submitting them to the voters for ratification. It requires, however, the vote of two-thirds of the members of each House instead of a bare majority, as under the present system. The Article is further amended by fixing the mini-mum number of members of a Constitutional Convention at one-half the membership of both branches of the Legislalature, instead of the aggregate number as it now stands.

Section 3 of Article XI, is amended so as to permit the proper Board to invest the funds accruing from the sale of State lands for educational purposes in the bonds of other States, instead of restricting them to United States and Nevaua State bonds, as at present.

These comprise the amendments adopted at the last session. They will have to be endorsed by the next Legislature before they can be submitted to the people for ratification. The Legislature also submitted a call for a Constitutional Convention which will be voted upon at the next consess election

In the midst of one of Nature's dream insurmountable cliffs and walls of rock, are the Shoshone Falls. There the Snake river's mighty volume of water, emerging from its placid stream above, sud-dealy leaps a distance of 75 feet, pauses an instant as if hesitating to take the fearful bound, and then takes its final plungo into the watery profound nearly three hundred feet below! I have stood for hours and watched without wearying.

upon the summit of the mighty walls of basalt which towers so grandly about this marvel of nature, and watched the descending waters as they poured down, down, down into the awful abyss that yawns so far below; watched the clouds of spray as they rose up and formed in misty magnificence between the sides of the tremendous chasm, blending their tender frost-work of silver and glass with the purple and green and gold of the sun's light, until all the lines of the prism were seized and woven into fantastic bands of beauty and bound around the stormy brow of the majastic cataract; watched the great river as it hurried way from the fearful scene; heard the deafening roar and crash of the madly rushing torrent, as it swept in terrific grandeur by, and my soul has stood still, swed into silent reverence by the incomparable spectacle. Nowhere else in nature have these great falls a counterpart.

Nowhere else in nature is there such an overwhelming manifestation of irresistible power, coupled with such rude sav-agery, as hover around Shoshone Falls.

In a vast sea of sage, and repulsive as vast, bounded in all directions by a dull monotony of plain, in the midst of a desolation inconceivably desolate, they are a

CH... RCO LL AS POOD.

Whatever increases the power of laying on fat or promoting the rapid and healthy production of flesh must be food or equivalent thereto. This pure charcoal does most effectually, as recently proved by taking the live weights of two lots of sheep, and simply separating them by an ordinary net, the artificial food, corn and cake being carefully weighed out to each lot alike daily, one pint of charcoal being added to one lot only. When re-weighed, prior to selling to the butcher, the increase in weight was in favor of charcoal by 164 per cent. Sanitation causes easy and complete digestion, and assimilation only can account for these results, which charcoal alone can accomplish. The charcoal should be given mixed with the food, except in urgent ca es, when it may be mixed in water or thin gruel and given as a drench. The dose is one pint to every twenty-five head of sheep or lambs. One-quarter pint per head for full-grown cattle, and two teaspoonful to one dessertspoonful for young calves, daily, when suffering from disaase or ill-condition. To keep in good health and fortify against disease the do e should be given two or three times per week, according to the class of food they are having and the state of the atmosphere. The best plan is to wet a quantity of bran, pollard or malt comb-ings; mix the charcoal among it, and then amongst the food you give them

For rapid and healthy fatting of cattle it should be used daily amongst their food.

Charcoal for internal and medicinal purposes must be pure vegetable charcoal, free from all irritating and injurious foreign matter. The charcoal, when coming into the user's possession, must be kept perfectly dry and free from any ill-smelling surroundings such as vapors of a stable, or artificial manures, etc., or it will absorb them and thus become sepic, and of no medicinal value. It is better kept in a closed bin, or tin cannister, with a closely fitting cover .- [Farm and
